GOODMAN IS HELD IN PRISON

James Goodman, alias Sam Brown, charged with forgery, was arraigned in police court this morning and instructed regarding his legal rights. Under a $500 bond, he was returned to the city prison to await his preliminary hearing which was continued.

Goodman is alleged to have passed a bogus check on October 22, for the sum of $21.50 on his landlady, Katherine Greiner. The check was drawn on J. G. Read Brothers company. The woman suspected that the paper was a forgery and, after cashing it, investigated and later caused the man's arrest. Goodman, at his boarding house, gave the name of Brown and it was by this name that he endorsed the forged check. After his arrest he changed his name to Goodman.

The police believe that Goodman is an old offender and, pending his preliminary hearing, investigations are being made. Goodman has refused to give the officers specimens of his handwriting.

ROMANCE OF THE RACE MEET

Henry Cavanaugh of Chicago and Florence May Kelly reached the climax of a romance when they were quietly married in Salt Lake City yesterday afternoon.

Henry Cavanaugh came here with Turney's stable of racers at the opening of the race meet this fall. He rode Special Delivery in sensational surprises for the talent, including the bookmakers, who failed to figure the fleet-footed animal at better than 6 to 1. Whether the clever riding made Henry loom to heroic proportions in the eyes of admiring Florence May is not disclosed, but certain it is that the jockey proved to be a gallant, and the young lady was equally fascinating to the youngster, so much so that when the time came for the jockey to depart for Emeryville, California, to accept a position with the Oakwood Stock Farm, there were lingering good-byes, and, finally, to end the suspense, he said:

"You will go with me, will you?" Miss Kelly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Kelly, 2358 Lincoln avenue, and is a most attractive young lady, highly accomplished and a talented musician.

Judge Azley, who has made his home with the Kellys, in extending his blessings to the young couple, spoke in the highest terms of young Cavanaugh, stating that he is a higher grade boy than usually found on race tracks.

Mr. Cavanaugh and his bride will leave some time during the week for 418 Park avenue, Emeryville, where the young husband has a cottage elegantly furnished awaiting their arrival.

SANITARIUM CASE NOW REOPENED

The case of R. C. Lundy against J. H. Kurtz and others, in which the plaintiff seeks to recover $900, alleged to be due for services rendered at the Ogden Canyon Sanitarium about two years ago, was reopened this morning in the district court. It was thought that the case had been concluded a few days ago when both parties rested, but the plaintiff, desiring to introduce further testimony regarding the kind of service rendered, asked that the case be reopened, which was permitted. The contention of the defendant is that the plaintiff was employed by the Sanitarium company and J. H. Kurtz, trustee for the heirs to the estate of his deceased brother, as assistant manager and that as such he would not be entitled under the statutes of the state, to a mechanic's lien, and that he could not recover in such action.

To bring the employment of Lundy under the provisions of the mechanic's lien law of Utah the plaintiff undertook to show this morning that Mr. Lundy performed manual labor at the resort and could be considered nothing more than a common laborer at the place. In support of this contention, the plaintiff testified that he did almost everything that was to be done at the resort. He said he built fires, cleaned bath rooms, looked after bathing suits, tended bar, cooked his own meals, assisted in plumbing jobs and attended to everything that was required at the hands of a common laborer.

On the other hand, Mrs. Mary Butterfield, who was employed as housekeeper at the resort at the time, stated that she did not see Mr. Lundy do anything toward keeping the place in order. She said she heard him quarreling with the boys around the place and in the office a good deal, and that he was intoxicated a good deal of the time she was there.

Other witnesses being away from the city, the case was continued until November 5.

SETTLE SUIT OUT OF COURT

In the civil division of the district court, in the matter of the estate of Sarah Letitia McBrantney, deceased, William McBrantney has been appointed administrator, under a bond of $2,000.

In the case of the Utah Stationary company, the Missouri Pacific Railway company, the defendant has been granted fifteen days additional time in which to prepare and file an answer.

On motion of the attorneys for the plaintiff, the personal damage suit of Frank Heckel against the Union Pacific railway company has been dismissed. The suit was brought for $5,000 damages, claimed to have been caused through a railway accident on the defendant company's road, but the parties compromised and settled the matter out of court.

The court has given written notice that the issues in the case of Albert Kunstdater et al, against P. W. Stecher, are properly joined and have been placed on file with the clerk of the court.

GOVERNOR REFUSES TO TALK AS TO TIMES' SUSPECTS

Sacramento, Cal., Oct. 26.—Asked today concerning the report that three dynamiting suspects had been arrested in Mexico in connection with the Los Angeles times outrage, Governor Gillett refused to discuss the matter, saying that it would be discourteous to the state department at Washington.

"When that report was given out at Los Angeles," said the governor, "Secretary of State Knox was greatly put out at it. I cannot confirm or deny the report that a request was made for the arrests of the suspects or that the arrests have or have not been made."

MANY MEN IN POLICE COURT

They Were Gathered in Last Night When the Officers of the Law Made a Raid on the Resorts Along Twenty-fifth Street—Queer Explanations Made to Judge Murphy.

It was necessary to bring an extra bench into the court room at the police station this morning in order to accommodate the prisoners gathered in by the police last night in their raid of the Twenty-fifth street resorts.

With few exceptions the thirteen men caught in the meshes of the dragnet pleaded not guilty to the charge of vagrancy and it was necessary to call Detective James Pender to the stand in order to secure convictions. Each of the prisoners in defending himself stated that he was not a professional "hanger-on" nor a vagrant, at the gambling house, but was in the city looking for work of a more legitimate character and had merely dropped into the place where found as a spectator.

Bert Johnson, the first man to take the witness chair, told the court that he had been working for William Frazar, a gambler, and that he had been compelled to give up his position for the time being. In answer to the question of the court relative to his financial condition, Frazar stated that he was "broke" when arrested.

"Well, a man can't live on sore feet," reflected the judge in passing sentence on the prisoner. Frazar received a fine of $10 or ten days in prison.

J. J. Lindquist stated that he had a sister in this city and was in the city on a visit. He stoutly denied that he was a vagrant, but claimed that he was looking for a job. According to his story, he had been in Ogden about two months. He had no money when arrested. Lindquist was found guilty and fined $10.

George Jones claimed that he was in Ogden taking baths for rheumatism. Jones had no money when arrested, and his story was not accepted as true by the court. He was found guilty of vagrancy and the regulation fine meted out to him.

"I came here with the races and lost my money," was the excuse made by J. King. King stated that he had been working around race tracks for nearly twenty years. "You ought to know by this time that you can't beat the odds," said the judge and the prisoner was placed among the "goats." The same fine was administered.

A prisoner, giving his name as E. Proctor, and stating that he was a horseman, employed in taking care of horses at the present time, was turned over to the chief of police by the court. If Proctor's story is found to be correct, he will be released.

Joseph Fensworth stated that he was in the city living off his friends, but was expecting to get out of town today. Fensworth will remain in the city prison for the next ten days unless some of his friends come to his aid.

Tom Johnson, R. Russell and A. E. Snow each told stories of being out of work at the present time, but denied that they were vagrants. They were each found guilty and given sentences of $10 or ten days.

D. Avery, arraigned on the same charge, pleaded not guilty and Detective Pender asked that the man be allowed to go free as there was reason to believe that the police had made a mistake in his case. Avery was dismissed.

John D. Keenan pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy and was fined $10 or ten days.

D. Leroy pleaded guilty to the same charge, and was given a suspended sentence of ninety days. Leroy proved to the court's satisfaction that he has a job waiting him.

Charles Moorehouse and R. Benson were found guilty of vagrancy and fined $10 or ten days.

FOREIGNERS FROM THE CUT-OFF

One hundred and eighty-eight Greek workmen employed by the Southern Pacific railroad were yesterday transferred from the work on the Ogden-Lucien cutoff to the gravel pits which have been opened at Pigeon. Many laborers are also being sent to various points in Idaho, where improvements are being made by the Oregon Short Line.

The work on the cut-off is now completed, with the exception of some ballasting on the west side of the lake, and it is for the newly made fill that the gravel taken from the Pigeon pit will be used. One of the steam shovels which has been used in the fill was taken with the gravel crew to the quarry. The work of ballasting will probably occupy several weeks.

The general exodus of foreign laborers, which was noticeable yesterday at the Union depot, was made up partly of this cut-off gang which had come to Ogden to receive wages, and of other workers who were being shipped north on the Oregon Short Line.

Railroad improvement work is to be done at Ashton, Miller, Twin Falls and Pocatello. At Pocatello extensive improvements are to be made. The yards are to be remodeled, a viaduct is to be built and a subway constructed.

PARENTS CAN AID THE TEACHER

A number of parents' meetings have been held in the city schools since the opening of school, by Supt. Mills, where questions pertaining to school discipline and co-operation of parents have been discussed. Supt. E. G. Gowans, of the State Industrial school, has assisted in this work occasionally.

Supt. Mills believes that if parents are made acquainted with the work their children are doing, the children will receive the benefit. He says that there are not many bad children in the schools and there are none but what the teachers and principals can handle if they secure the right kind of cooperation from parents. There are times when there are serious difficulties and that is when parents undertake a defense of their children and in practically all of the cases the children are absolutely at fault. Sometimes a child, who has told a little innocent lie to a parent, can be made a confirmed liar by the parents believing that story and urging it so much that in time the child believes it. There is nothing discouraging in the lies of children until parents, by their defense of these lies, make it a serious matter.

AUSTIN'S RECORD AS SILVER CAMP

Austin, Nevada, with a production record of $650,000 to its credit, is today the scene of considerable activity.

ity; with upwards of 150 men employed in the Reese River district and a new mill to be opened to handle thousands of tons of ore on the various dumps in close proximity of the town, says Paul Klopstock, a well-known mining man of Lander county, who returned home yesterday. Sixteen hundred feet is the lowest workings in the camp.

The Austin-Manhattan Consolidated Mining company is the one big company of the district, controlling nearly 10,000 acres of the most productive ground in and around Austin. It is now employing between 70 and 80 men. "The company is doing a vast amount of prospecting, developing and blocking out of ore, in addition to erecting a mill, which is about to steam up, to treat its low-grade ores," said Mr. Klopstock.

"The Jack Pot property is showing up some high-grade milling ore, running from $30 to $40 to the ton. The ores usually are silver-lead, except in the 'gold belt' on the Jack Pot ground. A recent shipment of the high grade netted $200 a ton in carload lots. The Jack Pot has perhaps 3,000 tons of good ore for the new mill. It has a lot of ore blocked out in the mine. There are probably 5,000 to 6,000 tons of ore on the Austin-Manhattan dumps ready for the mill, averaging $25 to $30.

"The high grade, running from 1,000 to 5,000 ounces silver, which gave Austin so much fame in years gone by is found in narrow streaks, with the milling ore on either side. However, the permanency of the camp is based on the large deposits of milling ore. J. H. Humes is general superintendent of the big merger company, and to him is due much credit for the splendid record made lately.

"There are quite a number of other properties working in the Reese River district, and the mining in motion of the wheel of the new custom mill will be hailed with delight."

CHILDREN'S AID MEETING FRIDAY

The Children's Aid society will hold an open meeting next Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock, at Weber Academy hall. Prominent speakers will present subjects of vital interest to the community and a good musical program will be given. A urgent invitation to the fathers, mothers and the general public is extended.

The society was incorporated April 5, 1910, for the purpose of rendering assistance to neglected, vagrant or cruelly treated children. The members of the society are of three classes, active, sustaining and life members. All members must be women over eighteen years old.

The officers of the society, elected for the ensuing year, are: Mrs. C. H. Gosling, president; Mrs. J. M. Bishop, vice president; Mrs. John Culley, secretary; Mrs. C. A. Smurthwaite, treasurer. The directors are: Mesdames T. W. Clancy, H. W. Barrows, Hattie Miller, N. F. Craig, N. Fulton, E. A. Littlefield, Carrie E. Bichel, R. P. Hunter, O. J. Stilwell, T. J. Ryan, Jas. Canse.

Speakers from Salt Lake and Ogden will eloquently present the needs of the society and its wards, earnest effort will be made to arouse interest in this worthy work and discussion of ways and means for providing homes for children will be a strong feature of the occasion.

The ladies of the Children's Aid society are well-known for their earnest work for the benefit of children, and the hearty support of the citizens of Ogden will undoubtedly be given them. Plans for future work have been carefully considered and the officers and directors of the organization will work faithfully for their consummation and hope for hearty cooperation.

MAX FIGMAN'S

Return Engagement in "Mary Jane's Pa" at the Ogden, Friday, Oct. 28

The popularity of Max Figman and his New York company was demonstrated when the box office opened this morning. "The seat sale was the best we have had this season," said Mr. Allison. "One hundred seats were ordered in a block from Brigham City, where he is a prime favorite. The city sale indicated that a capacity man is a society favorite here, and his friends are arranging to entertain him and his talented wife."

TWO FIRES DURING THE MORNING

Two fires occurred in the city this morning, one at 3 a. m., at the home of Fred J. Kenley at Five Points, the other at the Cross business block on Washington avenue, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets.

A barn was completely destroyed by the Five Points fire and damage done to the amount of about $200. The fire was controlled by the volunteer fire department of Five Points, the fire department in the city not being called on. It is thought that a tramp slept in the barn and set it on fire.

The fire in the Cross block was caused, presumably, by a guest of the rooming apartments on the second floor leaving a lighted pipe or cigarette in his room. The fire was discovered at about 9 o'clock and an alarm turned in at station No. 1. A good run was made to the place, but the fire was of such nature that it was easily extinguished, a bucket of water in the hands of Chief Canfield being sufficient.

It is the opinion of the landlady of the house and the firemen that the man occupying the room left a lighted pipe or cigarette in the room when he left it this morning. The room was found to be locked when the firemen appeared and when the door was forced open the bedding, carpet and wall paper were on fire. The bed was completely destroyed and considerable damage was done to the walls and carpet. The loss is placed at $50.

THEY SPEND ALL THEIR MONEY

C. Rogers, a colored man, pleaded guilty in police court this morning to having stolen a sweater and was fined $5 or five days. The sweater was valued at $1. Rogers endeavored to tell the court that he had found the garment in a yard, but when pinned down admitted that he had stolen it.

H. H. Clay, charged with vagrancy, pleaded not guilty and was placed under a bond of $10. He will be given a hearing probably tomorrow.

According to the arresting officer, Tom Riley, who yesterday pleaded not guilty to the charge of mendacity attempted to beg money from the passengers gathered at the Bamberger depot and, when he was refused, started a bombardment of the station with rocks. Riley admitted to the court that he had been drinking, but denied that he had asked any person for any money.

"I have worked all my life in the mines," he said, "and I have a brother living in Park City. I am on my way to my brother's home and expect to go to work there as my brother works in the mines at that place."

"Do you mean to tell me," said Judge Murphy, "that you have worked all your life in the mines and that you have no money—you never have saved a cent?"

"There isn't anything strange about this, your honor. There are plenty of men who spend their whole lives in the mines and die paupers," said the prisoner, with Irish readiness at reports.

The judge gave instructions that the police should investigate Riley's story of his brother and if it is found that the man is telling the truth, he be released.

DEATH CALLS PROMINENT LAWYER

Judge W. L. Maginnis, one of the best known criminal lawyers in the west, and former chief justice of the territory of Wyoming under the Cleveland administration, passed away at 2 o'clock this morning at the family residence, 2971 Washington avenue, of cancer of the throat.

When less than a year past Judge Maginnis had throat trouble and had received treatment from some of the best specialists in the United States. For more than three months Judge Maginnis had refrained from active law practice and had acted in an advisory capacity with his son, S. A. Maginnis, who had been his law partner.

When the Vance case came up for retrial in Salt Lake Judge Maginnis, regardless of his physical condition, went to Salt Lake to appear in the defense of Vance. Tuesday afternoon he did not go to Salt Lake, but remained at home. To members of his family he expressed himself as feeling fine and retired early Tuesday night. About 2 o'clock this morning he complained of his throat, and shortly afterwards quietly passed away.

Judge William L. Maginnis was born 52 years ago at Somerset, O. He was admitted to the bar in his own state and in 1882 came to Wyoming as chief justice of that territory, under appointment from President Cleveland. After six years' service in that territory he removed to Ogden, where he continued to reside up to the time of his death.

For many years past Judge Maginnis had been considered one of the most able criminal lawyers in the state. He took an active part in Democratic politics and his death will leave a vacancy in the foremost ranks of the party in Utah.

He was, of course, a member of the State Bar association, and was affiliated with a number of secret fraternal organizations, among which were the Knights of Columbus, B. P. O. E., Modern Woodmen of America and Maccabees. He was also one of the oldest members of the Weber club.

Surviving the deceased are the wife and eight children—S. A. Maginnis, his oldest son and law partner; Daisy, Thomas, Florence, Dell, Jack and two younger children. There is also a sister, Mrs. L. E. Miller, who is employed in the registry department of the local postoffice.

Funeral Friday. Out of respect to the memory of Judge W. L. Maginnis, a member of the bar of this court, who died this morning, this court stands adjourned until after the funeral services have been held," was the order of Judge Howell in the district court this morning, when the court's attention was called to the death of Judge Maginnis by Attorney T. D. Johnson.

Funeral services will be held at the Catholic church, on the corner of Twenty-fourth street and Adams avenue, next Friday morning. The exact hour is not yet determined.

The bar association of Ogden will be called to meeting today or tomorrow, by President Kimball, for the purpose of passing resolutions of respect to the departed, and condolence to the bereaved family. The resolutions will be spread upon the minutes of the Second District Court, and a copy will be sent to the family.

PHYSICIAN FALSELY ACCUSED TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 26.—Worried over his arrest on a charge of being responsible for the death of Mrs. Leora Hooy, of this city, by performing an operation, Dr. Albert E. Reinichen, a leading physician of Springfield, committed suicide at his home here today by taking morphine. The physician since his arrest had protested his innocence of the charge against him, asserting that the operation was necessary as the only chance of saving the woman's life.
